Endangered Species and Near Extinction Animals on the Brink of Extinction Many species around the world are teetering on the edge of extinction due to factors like habitat loss, poaching, pollution, and climate change. These animals often symbolize the fragility of ecosystems and the impact humans have on the natural world.

Vaquita: The vaquita is a small porpoise found only in the northern part of the Gulf of California in Mexico. With fewer than 10 individuals estimated to remain, it is considered the most endangered marine mammal. Illegal fishing and bycatch have decimated their population.

Javan Rhino: Once widespread across Southeast Asia, the Javan rhinoceros is now confined to Ujung Kulon National Park in Indonesia, with fewer than 80 individuals remaining. Poaching and habitat encroachment threaten their survival.

The Harsh Reality of Habitat Destruction As human populations expand, natural habitats are increasingly destroyed or fragmented, leaving animals without safe places to live.

Deforestation: Forests are cleared for agriculture, urban development, and logging, destroying homes for countless species such as orangutans, tigers, and countless birds.

Urbanization: Cities and infrastructure projects encroach upon wilderness areas, fragmenting ecosystems and isolating animal populations.

Aquatic Habitat Loss: Coral reefs and mangroves are destroyed due to pollution, overfishing, and climate change, endangering marine species like sea turtles and reef fish.

Animal Cruelty and Exploitation
